

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a television receiver, when watching starting time for registered watching reserved information has come, a channel selected at present is a watching reserved channel, and an OSD
5 image has been displayed on a display section, the television receiver stops the display of the OSD image and displays an image of a program which is being broadcasted in the watching reserved channel. This prevents a user from missing the watching reserved program owing to the fact that the user has watched
10 an electronic program guide or a setting menu screen and not noticed that the watching starting time of the program has come.